

The FCC should not implement any proposal that would lessen Indiana's Telephone Privacy law protections. The Indiana Telephone Privacy Law has virtually eliminated our unwanted telephone calls. Our quality of life at home after long, hard days working has greatly improved. We used to get 5-6 calls per week, and we now receive one per week. The Indiana law has been a forerunner in this area, and we do not want to see its effectiveness diminished by the implementation of proceeding 02-278.
